

PARKSIDE HOUSE SCHOOL

Absence Management Policy

SCHOOL YEAR 2018-2019
REVIEWED MARCH 2020

Introduction:

High levels of absence are a serious problem for small organisations like Parkside House School.

This policy is concerned with the following categories of absence:

- Unauthorised absence (which includes lateness)
- Certified or uncertified sick leave
- Authorised absence (compassionate leave, maternity leave etc.)

The effects of high absence levels are widely varying and affect everyone at Parkside House School as they lead to:

- A lower quality level service for our pupils
- Disruption to the flow of work
- Low morale and general dissatisfaction resulting in low productivity across the school
- Higher stress levels for pupils and staff.

These issues are not regarded purely as a management problem because all employees have an interest in ensuring that a few absent staff do not jeopardise the job satisfaction for all staff. By working together to establish and maintain ways of monitoring and controlling absence we are not only controlling costs and increasing levels of service but also ensuring the fair and consistent treatment of the whole staff team.

Long Term Sick

Parkside House School recognises its duty to keep in touch with all employees, particularly those who are suffering long term sickness. To achieve this, contact will be made through home visits and telephone calls.

If you are absent for more than four weeks you may be asked if a visit can be made to your home. The decision rests with you as to whether you have a home visit or would prefer to attend school for the meeting. The purpose of the meeting is to give any support or information which is available for your welfare and to keep the school up to date with your circumstances. If an employee on long term sick refuses a home visit or to attend a meeting in school on more than one occasion, a decision about termination of contract may be considered on the basis of the information available at the time.

Parkside House School will deal with cases of long term sickness on an individual basis taking into account;

- How much operational damage is being caused by the absence
- Will a return to work be possible/likely
- Will a full recovery be possible/likely
- Could the employee return if some assistance was provided
- Is lighter, less stressful work available
- Are reduced hours of work possible
- How long the employee has been in school
- Have all possibilities and avenues been discussed

If it is felt that these areas have all been exhausted the employee will be informed and a meeting to discuss the proposal to dismiss will be arranged.

In the absence of further information coming to light, it is likely that dismissal would follow such a meeting.
